BIG LEAGUE OFF IN A FRENZY

By KYLE PATTERSON and LAURIE SCHWAB

Victorian State League stars are scrambling for transfers to the Philips League as Australia's national competition prepares to kick off on Friday night.

And three PSL matches have been rescheduled because APIA, Sydney City and St. George have to play on Sunday in the NSW Ampol Cup semi-finals which were washed out last weekend.

The reshuffle means Fitzroy and St. George meet at Olympic Park at 3 pm on Monday; Brisbane Lions and Sydney City clash at Perry Park, Brisbane, at 8 pm on Friday and APIA and West Adelaide meet at Marconi Oval at 8 pm on Friday.

Yakka Banovic of Essendon Croatia, rated among the finest goalkeepers in Australia, is the most prominent Victorian player seeking to move up into the Philips League.

Banovic, who has played for Victoria and his home State, South Australia, is determined to join Fitzroy.

His Croatia team mate, striker Tommy Cummings, also wants a transfer to a PSL club. Cummings won the 1978 Rothmans Medal and the Bill Flemming Player of the Year award.

State representative sweeper John Yzendoorn, who won the "Soccer Action" Victorian player of the year award for 1978, is one of two Slavia players eager to switch to the PSL.

The other is striker Jim Paton, top scorer in the State League last season. He was a star with Queen's Park in Scotland before joining Slavia in early 1978.

Yugoslav Airlines announced this week it will again sponsor the "Soccer Action" Player of the Year award.

Prize for the winner is two return air fares to Yugoslavia. The tickets are strictly non-transferable. They must be used by the winner and whoever he wishes to take with him.

It is the fourth year of JAT's involvement. The award was split between Melbourne and Sydney in 1976, when Bruce Stowell of Pan Hellenic was voted NSW player of the year and Steve Kokoska, then of Sunshine City, was voted best in Victoria.

In 1977, the inaugural PSL year, the award became national. It was won by Marconi's Jimmy Rooney who is now with Fitzroy. Ken Boden of Newcastle KB United was the JAT Player of the Year in 1978.

In 1977 and 1978, Rooney and Boden also won the Australian Soccer Press Association (ASPA) Player of the Year awards. The JAT award remains the most valuable available to the Philips League's top player.

Courage Breweries will provide a cash prize of $750 for the top scorer in the Philips League this season.

The progressive goalscorers' list will be published weekly in "Soccer Action".

Courage will also provide $250 for the top scorer in the Victorian State League. "Soccer Action" will publish the progressive scorers' list for that league as well.

Meanwhile, Melbourne clubs fared badly in their last practice matches before the PSL kick-off.

Footscray J.U.S.T. crashed 0-3 to Marconi for whom star recruit Eddie Krncevic from Essendon Croatia, scored one of the goals.

And South Melbourne, which tried out Sydney Olympic defender Stuart Mark-land, lost 0-2 to Rale Rasic's Adelaide City in Adelaide. In another pointer to PSL form, Newcastle KB United and Canberra City drew 2-2 in Newcastle in the first leg of the Prime Minister's Cup, after Newcastle had led 2-0 at half time.

The question prompted by the practice games is whether Melbourne will again have to play second fiddle in the Philips League.

Footscray, South Melbourne and Fitzroy know that failure this year could spell financial disaster.

Yakka Banovic would further strengthen John War-gittie's star-studded Fitzroy team which already features Jimmy Rooney, Branko Buljevic, Jim Tensley, Gary Cole and Jim Campbell.

Banovic is concerned that a group of players at Croatia is working against the club. This is one of the reasons he wants to leave.

Croatia manager Frank Burin said this week: "Yakka said he doesn't want to stay with the club when a group of players threatens to undermine Croatia's effort. He believes his reputation will be harmed if he stays."

Big Eddie draws blood

Rugby club for PSL?

NSW Rugby League club Parramatta is considering entering a soccer team in the Philips League.

Alternatively, existing soccer interests in the Parramatta area will be encouraged to put together a PSL team.

"We are very interested in the proposition, as by going to Parramatta, we would be going to where the audience is," PSL manager John Frank said this week.

Parramatta Rugby League club's home ground, Cumberland Oval, is to be upgraded over the next two years at a cost of $20 million.

"The ground will be a U.S.-style 'bowl', with all facilities including TV installations," Mr Frank said.

Parramatta wants to make full use of the ground by having soccer played on it when the Rugby team is playing away from home.

There have been talks between Parramatta officials

It was a nerve-wracking day for big Eddie Krncevic. He wore the light blue of Marconi for the first time, and he did so in his home city, Melbourne, which was curious whether he would justify the $9000 Marconi paid Essendon Croatia for him.

The justification came when the 18-year-old youth international scored the second goal in Marconi's 3-0 defeat of Footscray J.U.S.T. And he did it so stylishly, shrugging off a challenge by Radoslav Jovicic (pictured lying on the ground) and dribbling around goalkeeper Steve Potter (pictured top) before slipping the ball into the net. At right Krncevic is congratulated by Mark Jankovics who scored the third goal. Pictures by SAM BELEFONTE.

FIVE POSSIBLES FOR ROONEY'S MIDFIELD ARMY

Fitzroy v. St. George in Melbourne

Fitzroy's prize signing Jimmy Rooney seems permanently stuck in top gear.

The former Apia and Marconi midfield dynamo has been running his heart out on Australian pitches since he arrived here from Scotland in the late sixties, and although now 32 years old, he's showing no signs of letting up.

Fitzroy is hoping Rooney's energy and leadership qualities can bring the club success, but at the moment it is unclear as to which players will line up alongside Rooney.

There are five candidates vying for the two spots in midfield with Rooney. Not one of the five is assured a place at the moment, and obviously coach John Margarithis will be having a long hard think before naming his midfield trio.

The candidates for the positions as Rooney's assistants are:

Jim Campbell — Campbell's goalscoring ability may win him one of the places, but his form in recent practice matches hasn't been good. But goals win games, and Campbell grabbed 12 last season to be Fitzroy's top goalscorer.

Only centre forwards Ken

Boden of Newcastle KB Utd and Clive Eaton (now Apia) of Western Suburbs scored more than Campbell in the league. They scored 14, which means Campbell's 12 from midfield is an incredible feat.

Pet Bannan — Bannan was captain of the team last season, and is a great motivator on the field. His strength allows him to stop many attacks in the midfield.

Ken Taylor — Taylor played as deep-lying midfielder last season, and did well in that position. He reads the game well, and supports intelligently.

Theo Selomedia — Was used as a winger last season, but with not much success. However, after coming under the watchful eye of national coach Rudi Gutendorf, he matured as a player. He's now far more confident, and will develop into a top midfielder.

Mike Micevski — A big-money signing from Marconi at the start of 1978, Micevski was a failure. He's in the outside running for a midfield place.

Midfield aside, Fitzroy's team looks settled with the defence of Arthur McMillan, Bob Provan, Jim O'Reilly and Jim Tansey. The forward line will be Branko Buljevic, Gary Cole and Andy Boziskas.

St. George promises to be one of the improved teams of 1979. After being on the bottom for several weeks during last season, the Dragons recovered to finish in a respectable mid-table position.

But the arrival of top European coach Joseph Gelai promises to speak a new era for St. George.

He has transformed several of St. George's players, and moulded into the team a couple of new signings.

Roy Cotton has been the most impressive of the new brigade. The former Brentford, Orient and Aldershot (all England) striker could make a mark this season.

Cotton is strong and fast, and loves to attack the ball anywhere near goal. He has the ability to shield the ball, and his lay offs bring team mates into the game.

He has scored a few impressive goals, and the agres-sive forward is building a lethal partnership with winger Phil O'Connor.

Dennis Duarte was playing in a local amateur league when a friend suggested he try his luck with St. George. He was given a trial and signed on the spot. He has good ball control, and is in line for a regular place with St. George.

Rudolfo Della Picca is a defender. He has impressed with his ability to read situations quickly and make good use of the ball. With Brendan Crosse, he will form a tight partnership in the middle of the defence.

Stephen Matic is a much-travelled midfielder. Before venturing down under, he played with Novi Sad (Yugoslavia), Sparta Rotterdam (Holland) and Bolivar (Bolivia).

His international experience will hold him in good stead for the PSL.

Joseph Gelai will have a headache trying to find a place for former Soccerro Doug Utjesenovic. The St. George veteran will be trying to force his way ahead of Della Picca or Crosse in the middle of defence.

St. George's line up could look something like this: Martin Coe or Michael Fraser — George Harris, Rudolfo Della Picca, Brendan Crosse or Doug Utjesenovic, Robert O'Shea — Stapan Matic, John O'Shea, Dennis Duarte — Phil O'Connor, Roy Cotton, Neville Morgan or Peter Hansen.

Fitzroy hasn't beaten St. George in the PSL, and the record should be kept intact.

St. George has been in competition for over a month, whereas Fitzroy has been sluggish in practice matches. Several of Fitzroy's players — Cole, Bannan and Provan to name three — returned home to Britain for holidays.

Fitzroy's preparation has been hindered by their absence, and so St. George should be too good.

Previous Results: 1977 — Fitzroy 1 St. George 2, Melbourne. Fitzroy 2 St. George 2, Sydney 1978 — Fitzroy 1 St. George 4, Melbourne. Fitzroy 0 St. George 2, Sydney.

National coach Rudi Gutendorf will soon start travelling from State to State, casting his eagle eye over players good enough perhaps to become Soccerroos.

Gutendorf, pictured above expressing a negative opinion to ASF president Sir Arthur George, will leave for Asia and Europe in August, to arrange matches for a tour by the national team.

Laumets and Davidson to miss out?

Newcastle KB Utd v. South Melbourne in Newcastle

Socceroo team-mates Jack Reilly and Peter Laumets and national under 19 squad members Alan Davidson and George Christopolous will be fighting each other as South Melbourne prepares for its opening PSL fixture against Newcastle KB Utd.

But the fighting will only be for a place in the star-studded South Melbourne team. Last year, Laumets and Reilly were selected in the Australian squad to play Greece at Olympic Park, Melbourne.

Laumets, then with Victorian State League club Preston Makedonia, got the nod from coach Jimmy Shoulder and made an excellent debut for the Socceroos.

A $15,000 transfer deal took Laumets from Preston Makedonia to South Melbourne, where he has joined Reilly in a battle for the number one shirt.

Davidson and Christopolous have been team-mates since the young Socceros tour of New Zealand late last season. Before that, the much-travelled pair went to Queensland together with The Victorian under 18 side for the Australian championships.

Christopolous and Davidson recently returned from the under 19 team's disastrous tour of Paraguay.

The pair became team-mates at club level when South Melbourne paid Altona City of the Victorian State League $1,000 for the talented Davidson.

But now Christopolous and Davidson look certain to be battling each other for the third midfield spot in the South Melbourne team.

Manager Dave MacLaren

wouldn't commit himself about which midfield combination he would play against Newcastle.

But he gave a clue. "To me, Alan Davidson isn't a defensive midfielder," said MacLaren. "He has a lot of flair, and he is better going forward than doing a defensive job."

So Sammy Wright will probably retain his place as a deep-lying midfielder. He performed well in that position last season and MacLaren's comments on Davidson ruled out the possibility that the former Altona star would be vying for Wright's place.

With Wright certain to play in midfield, there are two other places to be filled.

Midfield dynamo Ken Drakeford will definitely play, leaving the third place a battle between Davidson and Christopolous.

Christopolous probably will be given the place because he played with South Melbourne last season. Davidson, still a relatively new face at the club, will start on the bench.

As for the Laumets/Reilly duel, experience should win out, resulting in Reilly getting the nod.

There are only two doubtful positions in the South Melbourne team, should Reilly and Christopolous be chosen ahead of their rivals, the team will be:

JACK REILLY — The most experienced goalkeeper in Australia. Reilly has played professional football in Scotland and the USA, and in the 1974 World Cup finals. He showed his desire to continue playing last season when he won back his place in the team from Swedish import John Hanson. Still one of Australia's best.

CHRIS KALAFATIDIS — Normally a central defender, Kalafatis looks destined to spend the season at right although he played brilliantly in the heart of the defence for Australia against Greece. Competition for the full back position could come from Mike Pye.

FRANK MUNRO — The former Wolves sweeper impressed with his early displays in Australia but hasn't matched the form since. Is still recovering from a knee strain, but should be fit for the Newcastle game.

South Melbourne goalkeeper Jack Reilly in action against Preston Makedonia in a practice match. Picture by SAM BELFONTE.

Peter Laumets — at $15,000 the most expensive goalkeeper in Australia.

JOHN BAXTER — A strong stopper, Baxter is the lynch-pin of the South Melbourne defence. Dominant in the air and a rugged tackler, Baxter has been South Melbourne's most consistent player.

TONY TURNER — An English import who has played several good games after a shaky start during which he was badly beaten by Joe Palintias of Footscray.

SAMMY WRIGHT — Hard-working midfielder who's always on hand to help his defence, start attacks and cover his team mates. A valuable player.

KEN DRAKEFORD — The pint-sized midfielder ace could be the star of the PSL season. Fast, with great ball control and the ability to crack any defence, Drakeford will be South Melbourne's danger man.

GEORGE CHRISTOPOLOUS — Not so long ago was playing with Coburg in the Victorian Third Division, but has rocketed to fame. A strong midfielder with the ability to score goals.

DUNCAN CUMMINGS

— A striker whose deadly speed has left many full backs floundering. Likes having through balls to chase and a good finisher of attacking moves. Cummings is South's top scorer over the two PSL seasons.

ALUN EVANS — Any soccer fan confused by the term "target man" need only watch Evans play. Always offers himself to team mates with the ball, shields it excellently and lays off the ball well. The best centre forward in this country.

GEORGE CAMPBELL — The idol of South Melbourne's fans, Campbell's ball control is dazzling. He has pace and his passing his pinpoint.

Newcastle's team will include many of the players who served the club so well in its first season in the PSL in 1978.

PHIL DANDO — Experienced goalkeeper, played in New Zealand and with Brisbane Lions before joining Newcastle.

PETER WILLIS — Solid right back who performs his task with a minimum of fuss.

BILL SUMMERS — A tall, powerful centre half, whose heading ability brought Newcastle many goals from corners and set-piece plays.

ROY DRINKWATER — A former New Zealand Player of the year, Drinkwater is Newcastle's captain. The well-built sweeper may not be the classiest defender in the league but he never stops pressuring opponents.

Opponents now team mates

While going through the "Soccer Action" archives we came across this pertinent picture of Australia's 1-0 victory over Wolverhampton Wanderers at Olympic Park on 1972.

It shows Australian goalkeeper Jack Reilly and Wolves centre back Frank Munro (light shirt) going up for the ball after a Wolves corner.

Reilly and Munro, who was Wolves' best player that day, are now team mates at South Melbourne.

COL CURRAN — Former Socceroo, Curran is a stout defender and a valuable attacking player. His moves up from left back are a feature of Newcastle's play.

MALCOLM McCLELLAND — youngster who was dropped from the Australian under 19 team shortly before its departure for Paraguay. Performed very well in pre-season games to force his way in the Newcastle team.

CRAIG MASON — Midfielder who was a vital link in Newcastle's side last season. Mason always works hard and has a tremendous shot.

PETER TREDINNICK — Young midfielder who will benefit from the experience he gained last season.

FRANK HEYS — Newcastle coach Alan Vest predicts Heys will be a sensation in the PSL. A decisive, penetrating forward, Heys could be the man to give Newcastle the extra bite it needs up front.

KEN BODEN — Was voted Australian Player of the Year by "Soccer Action" and the ASPA last season. A brilliant forward, and PSL equal to score for 1978.

JIM MCBREEN — Came to Australia with Heys during the close season. His inclusion in Newcastle's forward line is expected to make it one of the most dangerous in the league.

This is only a likely Newcastle line-up.

Both teams have strong forward lines. South Melbourne's defence is doubtful, and Newcastle's midfield isn't as strong as it could be.

But Souths are better balanced, and should take off both points.

PREVIOUS RESULTS: 1978 — South Melbourne 3, Newcastle 0 at Middle Park, Melbourne — Newcastle 1 South Melbourne 1 at International Sports Field, Newcastle.

OUR TIP: SOUTH MELBOURNE TO WIN

Rampanti - Richards - Stone?

APIA v West Adelaide in Sydney

APIA'S $40,000 Italian import Rosario Rampanti is likely to join Peter Stone in midfield against 1978 PSL champion West Adelaide.

The other midfield spot will go to Ray Richards or Brian O'Donnell.

All are players of exceptional class, as they need to be to make an impression on West Adelaide's star duo Peter Boyle and Neil McGachey.

Rampanti alone guarantees APIA of a large crowd at its first PSL match.

FIRST PSL match.
He is from Bologna, which paid $600,000 for him. He had previously played for Torino and has since been on loan to Brechia.

But is he as classy as Roberto Vieri, the former Italian First Division star who is now the midfield maestro of Marconi? The answer to that question is not likely to be supplied by this week's match. Obviously it will take Rampanti some weeks to produce his best.

It is also intriguing to ponder the role Ray Richards will play at APIA, following his free transfer from Marconi.

Richards, boasting his new slim look, is still among the most inspiring players in Australia but with Peter Stone and Rampanti certain to be selected, Richards faces still competition.

In Richard's own words, his main competitor, Brian O'Donnell, will emerge as one of the stars of the 1979 PSL competition. Eric Carruthers is also in line for that third midfield spot.

Up front, Andy Scott has earned automatic selection with some uncanny goal-scoring performances in the NSW Ampol Cup (including five goals in one game).

Ken Reed, bought from George Cross for $8000, will improve from week to week. Like Scott when he was with Ringwood Wilhelmina, Reed scored regularly in Victoria, but Reed did so over a much longer period.

He was the State League's top scorer in 1977 and, counting Cup goals, he was the leader again in 1978.

In short, the Scott-Reed striking partnership looks deadly indeed. Whether John Vernong or Terry Butler will provide the wing service remains to be seen.

As is the case in midfield, coach Jim Adam is faced with an embarrassment of riches in attack.

The positions that do appear to have been filled are: Greg Woodhouse as goalkeeper, Rod Skellern as right back, Warren Turnbull for left back and Peter Wilson as sweeper.

Ian Rowden will probably line up as the other centre back, but Richards is capable of playing in that position. Whoever gets Adam's nod will face the daunting task of having to stop West Adelaide's gigantic striker David Pillans whose height makes him tower like a lighthouse above everyone else.

West Adelaide's team seems well settled, but coach Tom Forde must, like Jim Adam, make a few difficult decisions. For example, will Grame Honeymen play alongside McGachey and Boyle in midfield, thus forcing Gordon McCulloch out of the team, or will Honeymen play up front, which could mean leaving out Graham Norris.

There are no decisions to be made about the defence. It is: Martyn Crook, Barry Reynolds, Con Kambeas, David Jones and Vic Bonzanic.

This will be a match of monumental proportions because of the stature of the players involved. Five of them are Australian internationals - Peter Wilson, Peter Stone, Terry Butler, Ray Richards and David Jones, and Con Kambeas is a former Greek international.

Although APIA has never before played against West Adelaide, many of its players were in the Western Suburbs team that met the South Australian giants.

Results of games between those two clubs were: 1978: West Subs. 2 W. Adel. 1 (Sydney). W. Adel. 2 West Subs. 0 (Adel). 1977: West Subs. 1 W. Adel. 1 (Syd). W. Adel. 0 West Subs. 1 (Adel).

OUR TIP: WEST ADELAIDE TO WIN.

MARCONI TO FACE BOGEY SIDE

Canberra City v Marconi in Canberra

Marconi has beaten Canberra only once in the Philips League, so despite Marconi's edge in class, this match at Bruce Stadium on Sunday is by no means a foregone conclusion.

In 1977 Canberra probably cost Marconi the championship by beating the Sydney team 1-0 at home and drawing 0-0 away.

And last year Canberra managed another scoreless draw at home before Marconi finally recorded its first win, 2-0, against its bogey team.

After much experimentation — most of it made necessary by injuries — coach Les Scheinflug finally has most of the Marconi stars available for selection.

With Eddie Krncovic, the $7000 striker from Essendon Croatia, moving into the attack for his first PSL match, Tony Henderson will be freed for a defensive or mid-field role.

Henderson himself wants to play as stopper, but it's unlikely he will get his wish, as Scheinflug quite rightly considers Henderson more valuable in a less restrictive role.

It will be interesting to see how Henderson fares against the club from which he transferred late last year for $14,000.

Roberto Vieri, who has recovered from injuries, will be back in midfield, alongside Gary Byrne and perhaps Henderson. That is a formidable midfield indeed, but Canberra should also be strong in that department, due to the presence of newcomer Isaac Farrell, from Motherwell in Scotland.

Farrell was brilliant in Canberra's shock 2-1 victory over South Melbourne a few weeks ago. Marconi had lost 1-3 to South Melbourne the previous week.

Mike Smith, 24, a centre back from Stoke City reserves, and new forward George Bailey, should also be rump cards for the reshaped Canberra.

Coach Vic Fernandez will have to find room for Danny Moulis, and Mike Milovencovic who missed the practice games while they were away with the Australian under 19 team.

But who will he drop to make room for them? From all reports, both Ken Kawaleva and Luis Salgado performed with distinction while the youngsters were away.

There is also doubt about whether Brian Stoddart and Jim Cant will play. These two regulars were not included in practice games, apparently because Fernandez did not consider them fit enough at this stage.

What is certain is that the 11 men who take the field will give it all they've got.

If Moulis plays, as he must, he'll probably mark Marconi's streak of white lightning, Peter Sharpe, who hates playing against this close-marking Canberra full back.

If Sharpe is subdued or if Vieri is prevented from giving Sharpe the type of service on which the winger relies, Marconi will lose some of its sting.

However, in Krncovic, Mark Jankovic, Gary Byrne and Henderson, Marconi has the talent to compensate.

OUR TIP: MARCONI TO WIN.

Management needs more professionals

A gradual move to put professionals into management positions of our top clubs is a forward step in our soccer development.

The greatest push for more management expertise and commitment seems to be in Sydney.

Sydney City is at the front of the management push with Harry Lakmaker the general manager and John Warren, promotions manager. Gerry Chaldi is of course the chief coach and he is employed on a part-time basis.

Marconi now has a full-time general manager in Livio Sartoretto and a full-time manager-coach in Les Scheinflug.

At St George a new full-time sales manager, Alan Barton, was recently appointed. He joins the part-time general manager, Les Boddice, and full-time chief coach, Josef Gelei.

APIA has a full-time chief coach in Jim Adam but is getting by with part-time men, Harry Ambrose and Dave McGuire who look after secretarial and promotional matters respectively.

Canberra has recruited Max Talbot, last year's president, to look after the new licensed club, but generally Canberra like the other capitals, still relies on amateur committees to oversee the progress of their clubs.

I believe Sydney is taking the right step by putting its affairs into the hands of people whose living will stand or fall by their success with the clubs.

Unpaid committeemen have neither the time nor the commitment that is needed to produce successful organisations today.

John Warren, Alan Barton, Livio Sartoretto and Harry Lakmaker are all totally committed to their clubs for their living.

Although Adelaide City has taken on Rale Raic on a full-time basis to oversee the development of soccer in the club, even more important is the development of the club itself.

Its management must be upgraded and what it has to offer sold more effectively to the public.

Full-time manager-coaches rarely survive more than a couple of seasons. A good general manager or promotions manager could expect to stay for a decade if he is doing well.

MIKE JOHNSON

With such continuity these men can introduce forward planning into clubs which currently lead such a precarious day-to-day existence.

Toongabbie, in NSW's State League, which is pushing for a Philips League place in the near future, has recognised the wisdom of forward planning and commitment.

It has two full-time executives in charge of its soccer affairs.

Full-time general manager is Bill Parkhouse who is supported by a full-time chief coach in Mick Jones.

One of the major reasons that Sydney clubs have upgraded their management is sheer necessity caused by falling crowds.

St George and Sydney City particularly face an enormous challenge to win support to sustain a Philips League team.

Both have thriving social clubs which pay the wages of the full-time men and not all interstate clubs have such an advantage.

However, most do have a captive spectator support of reasonable proportions, plus social clubs of some sort which could provide finance to pay the wages of full-time management men.

No organisation can expect to grow without capable, committed professionals in management in today's highly competitive world.

Our soccer clubs compete with other football codes and a whole range of other sports and pastimes for the attention and patronage of the public.

To continue to leave club management in the hands of amateurs who run soccer as a hobby would be unprogressive and without progress you start to go backward.

There will continue to be an important need for the amateur committee-man in the less vital aspects of day-to-day club management.

But the overall development and promotion of the club must be in the hands of skilled professionals whose livelihood depends on them doing a successful job.

Jovicic and co. have the class

Two of Footscray JUST's imported players: Slobodan Jovanovic (left) and Radoslav Jovicic.

A battle of giants will decide the outcome of Sydney Olympic's home match against Victoria's glamor side of the moment, Footscray J.U.S.T.

The giants are Olympic's twin strikers Dave McIntosh and Clive Eaton and Footscray's centre backs Jim Kondarios and Radoslav Jovicic.

If Kondarios and Jovicic contain these lethal goalscorers, Footscray will win.

The Victorians are renowned as the most skilful team in the league. Their overlapping full backs Zoran Illoski and Zdravko Jujic, plus linkmen Andrija Ristic, Joe Piccione and Slobodan Jovanovic, should give Footscray a decided territorial advantage in midfield and a lion's share of the ball.

This will ensure a steady supply of passes to front-runners Joe Palinkas, Peter Ollerton and Mendo Ristovski.

But all this could come to naught if Eaton and McIntosh are allowed to break through in counter-attacks, fed by dangerous winger Derek Laing.

The return of experienced George Gibson, who has been out for a long time with a broken leg, will add steel to the Olympic defence, but even with Gibson there to organise play, the back line will find itself stretched to breaking point by Ristovski and Palinkas.

Footscray has long cried out for strength and height in the middle of the attack. Ol-lerton now provides these qualities, which makes Footscray a much more formidable outfit than it was last season.

But Footscray's real strength is its ability to come from behind, to storm forward in lightning-sharp counter-attacks. And watch Jovicic! He will be a sensation this year just as Lujic was a sensation in 1978.

Jovicic is easily the most stylish sweeper in Australia. He is tall, strong, skilful. He passes with pin-point accuracy over 30 and 40 metres — with the outside of his foot — he gets involved in attacking moves.

He can launch powerful shots at goal.

Coach Cedo Cirkovic has had his team working on filling gaps left in the back by advancing defenders. Thus, if Jovicic or one of the full backs comes forward, there is always a man available to cover.

In short, Plavi, the Blues, should have a hell of a season!

Olympic, under Joe Marston, looks better than it did last year, due to the inclusion of Eaton, who was bought from Western Suburbs, and the return of the mighty Gibson.

Alan Ainalie, in midfield last year, finds himself at full back now and it appears that Marston will use young Peter Raskopoulos who was neglected for most of last season.

Gary Meier remains one of the finest goalkeepers in the league, but Footscray's import Steve Potter, who played almost 200 games with Swansea in England, is even better.

Richie Bell, the Olympic centre back, will have his hands full with Ollerton while midfielders Mike Cross, Raskopoulos and Alex Jamieson face a formidable task against Ristic, Piccione and Jovanovic.

Neither team has an advantage over the other on the basis of scores since the beginning of the PSL. The scores are:

1977: Footscray 1 Olympic 0, Olympic 0 Footscray 0; 1978: Olympic 1 Footscray 1, Footscray 2 Olympic 3.

Our tip: Footscray to win

NSW AMPOL CUP

St George was given a reprieve from the semi-final showdown against Melita as a result of the torrential rain in Sydney. The team is still the one to beat in this year's Ampol Cup, despite its poor showing against Croatia. Pictured from left to right: standing: Cotton, R. O'Shea, J. NSW Cup delayed

Torrential rain caused the postponement of the semi-finals of the NSW Ampol Cup. Sydney City, APIA, Melita Eagles and St George are to play the semi-finals at Wentworth Park from 1.15 pm on Sunday.

Wentworth Park looked a sorry sight the morning of the proposed semi-finals, and it is unlikely to look any better before next weekend.

Assuming all goes according to plan, the semi-final battles in the Ampol Cup will see the following line-ups:

SYDNEY CITY

Pezzano
Kershaw, Trenter, O'Connor, Thompson, Stevenson, Souness, Barnes, Watson, T. Smith, Silva

APIA

Woodhouse
Skellern, Rowden, Wilson, Turnbull, O'Donnell, Stone, Richards, Butler, Scott, Vernon

MELITA EAGLES

WILLIAMS INJURED

By PETER WINDSOR

Canberra City has won the future of their three star, much-in-demand teenagers and Australian under-19 squad representatives Stephen Hogg, Danny Moulis and Mike Milovanovic.

All have re-signed for Canberra for 1979 with Moulis having had a substantial offer to join Sydney City and Hogg a similar sound offer to join Brisbane City.

Milovanovic has also had offers to join other PSL clubs.

This trio are products of Canberra soccer and were three of the best players in Australia's recent battles in Paraguay.

The other man who finally put his name on the dotted line for Canberra this week was Harry Williams, long-time St

George stalwart and former Soccerero.

Williams, who much to the joy of Canberra's president Charles Perkins, now lives in Canberra, could be a great acquisition for Canberra but a sizeable question-mark still hangs over his fitness.

Williams broke down in training and has still not fully recovered. City was disappointed this week at the lack of fitness of their most recent acquisition Mike Smith, former captain of Stoke City Reserve side.

Smith has not played or trained for 2½ months and is overweight and out of condition.

This fact must have proved a great disappointment to City's directors who paid their UK agent $500 for Smith's services.

Now the good news. Canberra has signed Irish Premier League central defender, Paul Fielding.

Fielding, 25, from top Irish club Sligo Rovers, will arrive in Australia this weekend.

Said City administrator Max Talbot: "He comes with a great reputation. He is rated one of the best halfbacks in Irish soccer."

City has Fielding until the season's end — if not for Phillips Cup games. He must be back in Ireland by August 29.

Last week Canberra City, always a progressive and go-ahead club, scored great success with its media night.

All arms of the Canberra media attended to hear Charles Perkins outline the club's plans, detail close season signings and receive a 40-page media guide.

The media guide will be of positive benefit. It includes:

- The history of Canberra City
- A handy ready reckoner of all match statistics
- A photographic lift-out of all Canberra City players with the exception of Smith who arrived after the collage picture was taken
- Names and phone numbers of all club contacts

More than 30 people attended the evening in which Perkins said: "Canberra City has come of age. We want everyone to think of Canberra City not as just a soccer club, but a club that can promote Canberra, the national capital."

"We are, after all, the only Canberra sporting club to participate in any regular national competition."

"We want the sporting public of Canberra to get behind us."

The other major coup was that the foreword came from the Prime Minister, Malcolm Fraser, who is Canberra City's patron.

The Prime Minister said: "I have been impressed by the initiative and effort that established Canberra City soccer club. Dedication, and just plain hard work, by directors, players, coaches and supporters alike have been responsible for the club's emergence as a real force in the soccer world."

"It is fitting tribute to the club that Canberra City had three representatives in the Australian under-19 team, which, I understand, will form the nucleus of the national team competing for a place in the final rounds of the World Cup in Spain in 1982."

"The establishment of a national soccer league with teams from major cities competing on a weekly basis is an important development in Australian sport."

"As patron of Canberra City soccer club I am delighted to offer my support for the club in promoting top class soccer in this region."

"I wish the club the best of football in the years ahead."

Krncevic goals, JUST falters

FOOTSCRAY J.U.S.T. 0 MARCONI 3 (Henderson 40th, Krncevic 55th, Jankovic 82nd), PSL practice match at Schintler Reserve, crowd about 2000.

MARCONI: Maher, Brogan, Russell, Prkalo, Degney, Lindsay, Byrne, Henderson, Krncevic, Jankovic, Shime.

FOOTSCRAY: Potter, Piccione (Todorovic 65th), Palinka, Orlerton, Ristovski (Ruzovic 58th).

Eddie Krncevic marked his first game for Marconi with a well-taken goal and midfielder Slobodan Jovanovic showed probably his best form since joining Footscray J.U.S.T. in the last practice match before the PSL season kicks off on the weekend.

However, the best player of them all was Footscray centre back Jim Kondarios, who gets better from year to year. National coach Rudi Gutendorf would be well advised to have a close look at the big defender this first time he gets.

Krncevic, the Australian youth international bought from Essendon Croatia, had his first scoring chance on a loose ball in the fourth minute but goalkeeper Steve Potter saved by diving at the striker's feet.

Footscray had the edge early in the game, when Mendo Ristovski was offering himself for every ball in attack and when Joe Piccione was cutting the Marconi defence with some fine passes.

Peter Brogan did well to run Ristovski down after such a pass from Piccione. Another good ball from Piccione found Ristovski wrong-footed and unable to connect properly with the ball. Joe Palinka, following up, blasted it over the bar.

After half an hour Palinka capped a fine run down the wing by squaring the ball for Piccione whose shot was blocked. The ball bounced to Peter Orlerton who slid in but hit the post.

Orlerton was marked out of the game by John Russell but in the 35th minute he laid the ball back well to Piccione whose powerful first-time drive was stopped by goalkeeper Allan Maher.

Jovanovic and Zdravko Lujic worked the ball forward in a brilliant first-time passing movement, before Zoran Ilkoski laid it off for Piccione, who hit the bottom of the post.

Five minutes from the end of the first half Footscray's classy sweeper Radoslav Jovicic blocked a drive by Gary Byrne, and allowed the ball to bounce out of his reach to Tony Henderson who drove it low into the net for Marconi's first goal.

After Potter had saved a close-range attempt by Peter Shime just after half-time, Krncevic scored the goal that sealed the result.

After a pass from Mark Jankovic, Krncevic shrugged off Jovicic, dribbled around goalkeeper Potter and planted the ball into the empty net.

Footscray coach Cedo Cirkevich then reshuffled his team, replacing Ristovski with Mirko Rujevic, pushing Lujic from left back to the left wing and switching Ilkoski to left back.

Shortly afterwards, Zoran Todorovic came on to replace Piccione, who had been Footscray's most dangerous attacking player. Footscray did not look dangerous from that point onwards.

In the 82nd minute Shime got away down the right wing and crossed to the middle where Jankovic chested the ball down and rammed it past Potter from the edge of the penalty area for the third goal.

Russell had a sound game in defence and Ivo Prkalo showed he is still one of the shrewdest sweepers in the national league. Gary Byrne showed great improvement in midfield and it shouldn't be long before he's back to his best international form.

Tony Henderson played an efficient midfield game and remains Marconi's top scorer. However, coach Lee Scheinflug is still looking forward to the day that he can use Henderson at centre back.

The great Roberto Vieri did not make the trip to Melbourne. Scheinflug said that Vieri was not fully fit — LAURIE SCHWAB.

Gerd s by Soc

Going back to West Germany in 1974 for the World Cup finals has to rate as the most memorable period of my football career.

However, had I known just how hectic it was going to be, I might well have been a little daunted by the trip. It was unbelievable the interest shown in the Australian team and myself during that trip.

It all started early in 1974 after we qualified, when a German television crew landed in Australia to make a sports documentary on how I lived and spent my time, both at work and training, as well as at home.

This was really the start of the mass media coverage I seemed to attract before and during the World Cup series. The show was broadcast in West Germany as a prelude to the World Cup finals, and I found when I arrived there I was a nationally known figure.

Before we even left Australia, a newspaper from Hamburg was calling by telephone each week for me to write an article for the sports section. This was, I must admit, a little overwhelming when compared to the media coverage I (and the Australian team in general) was getting at home.

Being born in Germany helped a lot in this regard, because I knew about the country and spoke the language, which was most important. This gave the Australians an outlet, publicity wise, in West Germany.

The man who did the film on me, was Peter Bizer, West Germany's top television interviewer, and one of the top journalists.

In the past he had written books about Guenther Netzer and done a top documentary on George Best.

Slobodan Jovanovic of Footscray slide tackles Marconi forward Mark Jankovic during the teams' practice match at Schintler Reserve last Sunday.

Striker Dragan Vasic and right back Paul Hyne have been placed on the transfer list by Footscray J.U.S.T.

Vasic was imported from Yugoslavia late in 1977.

Hyne, an Englishman who played for Bremerhaven in the German Second Division, was imported early this year together with Steve Carpenter, a midfielder.

Also on J.U.S.T.'s transfer list is brilliant goalkeeper Denis Boland who was among the leaders last year in the voting for the Yugoslav Airlines — "Soccer Action" Player of the Year award. Mike O'Hara, the goalkeeper who previously played for Hakoah, Slavia and Victoria, also wants a transfer from J.U.S.T.

West German striker Gerd Mueller (right) heads his country's third goal in its World Cup match with Australia in 1974.

Our training camp was as good as I've seen anywhere in the world, and we really settled down to it, with more and more media coverage every day.

However the attitude of the West German media before the first game was a little petting. They thought we were just the lambs for the slaughter. They soon found it different.

On free days the Australian team and I couldn't walk down the street without being surrounded by soccer fans, who had recognised me from the television and newspapers. They all wanted to talk football, and get my autograph. However, the Australian team was mobbed wherever it went. I the camp was always visited by callers and well-wishers. The real impact of the Australian team wasn't felt until after the first match. It was a 2-0 loss to East Germany. Although we lost, the first hour of the match played Australia into the hearts of the Australian crowd.

We kept the East German team scoreless during this time. In fact made them look not so excellent. The team they were made out to be.

The top East German striker, Gerd Mueller, who I had the privilege of marking at the start of the night, was one of the best players with only half an hour to go.

He repeatedly told me, in German, that the scoreline shouldn't be 0-0 and this result just wouldn't be allowed to happen.

As it turned out, they scored the first goal on the half hour. Gerd Mueller hammered home a brilliant half-volley a few minutes before the end of the first half.

This was the game which Australia came of age in international football. Australia had taken on one of the best sides in the world. East Germany had yielded great results leading to the finals. We held them for an hour, until their super was proved too much.

I think the German public took to heart after this match. In the 1974 World Cup, we were amateurs. We had a banker, a coal miner, a milkman, a sports store owner, a roofer, a salesman, a promotions man, a labourer and a car salesman in our team, plus a part time teacher.

Yet we were able to get good results. It was a great feeling that, although we lost, we felt we had achieved something.

The media reviews of the match, praised us, apart from the disgruntled BBC men, and the Polish newspaper men, who were still smarting over a team from Poland putting them out of the cup earlier.

Next came the West German team. This was a different kettle of fish. They scored two goals

West Adelaide grabbed the Ampol cup with a dramatic 2-1 extra time victory over a gallant Croatia at Hindmarsh Stadium.

Croatia, which had not lost a game, held the PSL champions to a goal-less draw until extra time.

West were a cut above Croatia for most of the match, but simply could not turn their superiority into goals.

Vic Bozanic, the hero of West's PSL title match against Adelaide City last August, put them on the victory trail with an 83rd minute goal.

The PSL champions began at a furious pace and dissected Croatia with some precise passing with Peter Boyle stamping his authority in midfield.

West's big downfall, however, was breaking down Croatia's defence. They continually worked their way around the defence, but their finishing was poor.

Harry Cavan (FIFA)

During a recent visit by FIFA official Harry Cavan, it was revealed that Australia's top referee, Tony Boskovic, may officiate in the world youth championships in Japan in August this year.

Mr Cavan was non-committal on the appointment of Boskovic, but suggested that the FIFA referees' committee will certainly have our leading referee on the list of possibilities for the World Cup appointments.

Boskovic refereed during the World Cup in Germany in 1974 and also was the leading referee during the ladies' World Cup played in Taiwan last year. Boskovic refereed the final of this tournament.

It would be an honor not only for Mr Boskovic, but also for Australia, to have our leading referee in Japan.

Davidson OK

ADELAIDE CITY 2 (Deans, Northcote) SOUTH MELBOURNE 0 at Olympic Sports Field, Adelaide, crowd about 2000.

The only pleasing aspect about this game as far as South Melbourne is concerned was the good form of Australian youth international Alan Davidson.

Davidson, bought from Altona City for only $1000, played for the full match.

Stuart Markland, the Sydney Olympic defender, was tried out but was not fit. South Melbourne president Sam Pappasava has denied that the club intends to buy him.

Adelaide City used Chris Kent, its recruit from South Melbourne, but Rasick replaced him in the second half.

Dixie Deans and Brian Northcote scored City's two goals.

PM's Cup draw

Newcastle KB United and Canberra City drew 2-2 in the first leg of their Prime Minister's Cup tie in Newcastle at the weekend.

The second leg will be played later in the season.

Goals by Ken Boden and Keith Herrie gave Newcastle a 2-0 lead at half time but Canberra equalised with goals by Isaac Ferrell and Jim Cant.

Highlights of the game were shown on TV by NBN3 in Newcastle and CTC7 in Canberra.

Makedonia v Croatia

Preston Makedonia will play Essendon Croatia in a charity game on Moomba Monday (March 12).

Proceeds go to the Preston and Northcote Community Hospital (PANCH).

The game will be played at B. T. Connor Reserve, kick-off 3 p.m.

However, the fact that both Banovic and Cumming have signed contracts for this season may prove an obstacle to their ambitions.

A transfer for Cumming could involve the Department of Immigration, as Cumming hasn't yet been granted permanent residency and Croatia has been given the responsibility for his welfare.

About a transfer for Banovic, Burin said his club had an agreement with Adelaide Croatia, Banovic's former club, that the goalkeeper should be transferred for not less than $10,000 if he ever decides to leave Essendon. A large portion of that fee would go to Adelaide, Burin said.

He added Banovic was a better goalkeeper than Peter Laumeta, who Makedonia sold to South Melbourne for $15,000 and that Banovic was therefore worth more than $15,000.

About Cumming, Burin said: "We paid $6500 for him but his value has increased."

BOZANIC AGAIN THE HERO

WEST ADELAIDE 2 CROATIA 1

Goals: Bozanic 1-0 (83), McGregor 2-0 (100), Pope 2-1 (108).

Crowd: 4,600.

WEST: Crook 7, Bozanic 8, Reynolds 7 (Kouliamos), McGachey 8, Kambas 7, Jones 7, Boyle 8, McCulloch 7, Honeyman 7 (Tymczyszyn), McGregor 8, Norris 7.

CROATIA: Pryzbilski 7, Holland 7, Iotter 8, Toth 8, Williams 7, Bendall 7, Pope 7, Harrow 7, Rogosic 5, Thompson 7, Hayes 7.

Their tactics of playing high balls in the heart of defence failed simply because Croatia's Bruno Kotir thumped everything that came his way.

While West were making hard work of scoring, Croatia almost went a goal up with their first attack.

But unfortunately Terry Hayes hit the post with a great 20 metre shot.

Graham Honeyman, Boyle and Ian McGregor all had shots for West after that let off but they were blocked by defenders.

Croatia, which began to look confident by the moment, were dangerous early in the second half and Hayes shot powerfully over the bar.

McGregor retaliated with a ground shot five minutes later and David Jones followed it up with a flashing header past the near post.

West intensified their attacking thrusts but were making little impression on Croatia's defence.

Tony for Japan?

During a recent visit by FIFA official Harry Cavan, it was revealed that Australia's top referee, Tony Boskovic, may officiate in the world youth championships in Japan in August this year.

Mr Cavan was non-committal on the appointment of Boskovic, but suggested that the FIFA referees' committee will certainly have our leading referee on the list of possibilities for the World Cup appointments.

Boskovic refereed during the World Cup in Germany in 1974 and also was the leading referee during the ladies' World Cup played in Taiwan last year. Boskovic refereed the final of this tournament.

It would be an honor not only for Mr Boskovic, but also for Australia, to have our leading referee in Japan.

We are almost certain to gain the votes of the FIFA committee according to Mr Cavan, and should stage the third World Youth Cup in Australia in 1981. The initial World Youth Cup was held in Tunisia, and the second is to be held at the end of August this year in Japan.

However Honeyman came close with a firm ground shot after outwitting three defenders in the 75th minute.

But from that point Croatia came out of their defensive shell and with West beginning to tire, the match could have swung either way.

Ben Rogosic blew a golden opportunity in the 67th minute when he broke away and with Martyn Crook well off his line shot wide.

West coach Tom Forde made a crucial change for the start of extra time and it swung the match for them.

Graham Honeyman, who was not fully fit, came off and was replaced by Peter Tymczyszyn, who moved into defence which allowed Bozanic to join Boyle and McGachey in midfield.

Within three minutes Bozanic gave them the lead with a superb goal.

McGregor inspired the move with a deft pass and Bozanic took one step before hitting a scorching 15 metre shot into the roof of the net which left Jack Pryzbilski transfixed on his line.

McGregor added the second goal in the 20th minute of extra time with a powerful rising shot from outside the penalty area.

John Pope reduced the deficit when he caught Crook off his line and lobbed it over his head from 20 metres.

The midfield play of George Cross and Slavia was very poor and as a result, the game never flowed and failed to provide entertainment.

In the first half the midfield was a scramble for the many loose balls. The midfield players were playing too close to each other but even when space was made, the passing was atrocious.

Slavia strikers Jim Paton and Steve Aldridge received a series of 'hospital' balls, the type that centre halves love to see given.

On most occasions, the ball was ballooned forward at the front men and in the windy conditions the defenders once again didn't mind at all.

George Cross was no better. Brian Thom, Ray Mizzi and Steve Sodonaco all struggled to get into the game.

Billy Wilkinson was one George Cross player who tried to keep the ball on the deck and give 'clean' passes and it was no surprise when he shifted from defence to midfield after the interval.

Derek Barron, the Cross left back, gave another sound display, with his work as an attacker being a bonus. It was a great run by Barron down the left flank that set up
George Cross' winning goal.

A goal by Slavia's Jim Williams four minutes before half time saved the game
from being a dreary affair.
Before Williams slammed home a rebound after Svez Matson had saved a fierce Paton header, the players were lacklustre and lacked conviction.

George Cross came out
after the break full of fight.
The standard didn't improve but at least the tempo increased and the fans were kept awake.

George's comeback started when the Slavia defence lapsed and allowed a diagonal ball to be played through the penalty area.

Youngster Steve Sodo-naco ghosted in on the far post to equalise with a left foot shot.

Thirteen minutes later George Cross was in front. A run by Barron saw Thom cut back a pass to Mizzi. His drive from 10 metres gave Alex McPherson no chance.

George Cross fully derived its win on endeavour in the second half, but Slavia's performance was disappointing. The team's pattern of play hasn't been the same since an impressive first round effort against Frankston City.

Frank Thompson continued to show good form and often overlapped well. But apart from the Slavia full back, none of the other players showed much at all.

Jim Pappas was missing from the George Cross team and he's reported to have an injury.

Slavia used two newly-arrived players, Tony Kinnear and Brian Moenaghan.

After three weeks of experimentation, Juventus coach Tony Boggi found a winning combination that played attractive soccer.

Juventus, featuring striker George Gillan, who had been bought from Fitzroy for $3000—the previous day, must have had 80 per cent of the play, but Altona fought back strongly in the second half during which Harry Hird and substitute John Little hit the woodwork.

Claude Lucchesi showed once again what a shrewd creator he can be in midfield and his brother John, in the team in place of Tony Curcio, has rarely been better.

Carlos Berbia, given a chance in midfield in the absence of injured Bruno Sabidussi, showed enough to warrant giving him further senior games. He is a skilful player who is also extremely tough.

Toughness is what Altona lacked in midfield. Nat Little showed that quality in attack and Kevin Kelly showed it in defence but in midfield,
Altona did not have a ball winner.

Berbia and Kelly were on the verge of a punch-up early in the game, as Kelly turned and pushed Berbia who had clipped the heels of the Altona centre back.

In the 22nd minute, Berbia started the move that put Juventus into the lead. He played a long through pass for John Lucchesi to run onto.
Altona goalkeeper Hans vander Poel managed to get at Lucchesi's shot, but the ball went under his body into the net.

Van der Poel also was partly to blame for the second goal, but he did make a few good saves, like diving at the feet of Gillan who had been put through by a pass from Claude Lucchesi.

Robert Terzini had a sound game in Juventus' goal. His first good save was from a header by Bob Taylor in the 34th minute and later he also foiled Con Ignatidis and Harry Hird.

Claude Lucchesi started the move that led to Juvetus' second goal, five minutes after half time. Picking up the ball in defence, he turned out of trouble, headed upfield and relayed a fine pass to John McGuinness. From a slight angle, McGuinness sent a slightly swerving shot virtually through van der Poel's grasping hands, into the net.
Juventus' third goal in the 50th minute came from a penalty converted by Charlie Smith after Peter Lewis had brought down John Lucchesi from behind.

But five minutes later,
Altona was also given a penalty after a Juventus defender had handballed clear a good header by Taylor. Taylor was hurt in the incident and was replaced by John Little just after George Train scored from the spot.

Dave Rigby, a Friday night signing by Hakoah from Adelaide City, made a good start for his new club after substituting for Branko Bozi-novski at half time. He created two good chances which could have sewn up the match long before the final whistle.

The first, which he finished himself, was just wide, while from the second he put Stuart Blair through with a defencesplitting pass, but Blair hesi-tated and lost the chance.

The match was played in blustery conditions and this,
aided by the uneven pitch,
made good soccer difficult.
Both defences were well on top, with Nick Lowe the absolute master for Sunshine.

Early in the match, Sunshine keeper John Scholten fumbled the ball in saving a half-hit shot and Les Nagy
following up, directed the ball goalwards only to be foiled by Mick Dixey who cleared off the line.

At the other end David Nelson caught Anton Dosen in possession and sent a cross into the area for a header by John McNally which Whiteside punched away.

Hakoah scored from a carelessly conceded corner in the 31st minute. Les Nagy took the kick, found French,
who had his shot blocked,
and Bozinovski sent the rebound through a melee of legs into the net.

Referee Gaut tightened his discipline in the second half, sending off Stewart Gilmour for retaliating against French.

Earlier Robbie Nelson
had been let off with a simple talking to for chopping down Joanovic, while John Daperis was punished only with a free kick against for swinging a wild boot at David Nelson.

The match provided little entertainment-wise but Frank Miele's side worked as a unit and it will take a good side to unsettle them in the semis. — PETER

Sunshine and Croydon in scramble for semi-finals

Sunshine City can sew up a semi finals berth if it defeats Croydon City at Olympic Park tonight (Wednesday).

Albion Rovers striker George Miller is fouled by Croatia goalkeeper Yanka Banovic.

The match is the second part of double header, which starts at 7.30 pm, to play postponed Ampol Cup fixtures.

Slavia meets Albion Rovers in the first game. Sunshine and Croydon both have four points, and are the leading contenders to join Hakoah (eight points) as the Group B semi finalists.

A win for Sunshine would give it six points, with an easy match against out-of-form Altona City in the final round this weekend.

A loss for Croydon would be disastrous, as the newly-promoted club has to play unbeaten Hakoah in its last match.

Hakoah is the only team assured of a semi-finals berth and the final games will produce more than one tough encounter as the scramble begins.

Only three clubs — Juventus, Albion and Altona — are out of the running. Some of the clubs still in the running have only an outside chance but it shows the tightness of the competition.

If Slavia wins its game against Albion tonight, a result which is expected, then it joins George Cross and Croatia as the hound dogs on the heels of Green Gully, Ajax and Frankston City.

Ajax and Frankston have six points each, but with the three outsiders only one game behind, their semi-finals places are far from secure.

Croatia, although not at its peak, could easily hit form and topple Frankston. Likewise, Slavia could have a form reversal and upset Ajax.

If the group leaders were upset, and George Cross downs Albion, there would be five teams on six points, with goal difference deciding the issue.

Preston Makedonia has little chance of edging out Sunshine or Croydon for second place in the group.

Preston needs an avalanche of goals against Juventus this Friday night, then hope Sunshine and Croydon suffer last round defeats. This is too much to hope for. — KYLE PATTERSON

Footscray JUST's ace winger Mendo Ristovski can now look back on the days when he was labelled the "teenage superstar" and remember the enormous pressure he faced when playing.

Like so many others who made a name for themselves at an early age, Ristovski found it hard to adjust and go from the budding youngster to the established senior.

Living up to other people's expectations places a heavy strain on young players.

"When I came into the JUST first team as a 16-year-old," said Mendo, "there was a lot of pressure on me. People were telling me to do this or do that and it made it very hard."

"I was always expected to do something outstanding. I could play a good game but unless I scored a great goal or beat my marker all the time, the supporters would think I played badly."

"And when I was going through a bad patch it was even worse. Sometimes things just don't go right and there's not much you can do."

Ristovski's problems started when he made a brilliant debut in 1972. His performance stunned the fans, but set a high level for Mendo to maintain.

Ristovski remembers his first game well.

"I played only three or four games in the reserve team before being promoted," said Mendo. "I virtually went from under 16 to State League first in one jump."

"But my first game was fantastic. It's still my most memorable match."

Mendo played alongside JUST greats Branko Buljevic, Frank Micic, Dan Zoraja and Jimmy Milisavljevic.

Years previous.

His first match was against South Melbourne Hellas at Olympic Park in the 1972 Victorian State League Cup.

The result was a 0-0 draw.

"I was very nervous at the start," said Mendo, "but settled down once we got going."

"I had a great game," he continued, full of typical Ristovski self-confidence, "and never stopped running."

Buljevic was sent off in that match, just after half time, making JUST's performance more creditable.

In the return match a week later at Middle Park, Ristovski stole the stage and won the hearts of JUST fans.

Ristovski was again outstanding, but his moment of glory came after extra time. A 1-1 scoreline was the result after the battle, and penalties were needed.

With the penalty showdown tied up, JUST had one penalty remaining. The fans were wondering who was going to take the vital kick.

Ristovski was the one, and with the coolness of a player of great experience, he slotted home the penalty to win the game for Footscray.

You can see why the Footscray fans expected a lot from young Ristovski in the years to come!

"The following season I found out a few things the hard way," he said. "I was injured and missed a couple of games and had to work to regain fitness and form."

He battled through the difficult period and now has a far more relaxed attitude towards soccer.

"The pressure is gone," he said. "I play my own game and don't care one bit about others trying to tell me what to do."

"I'm part of the team and I try to do my best every game. I'm out to do well for Footscray JUST and myself, but I don't worry about any supporters who expect more from me."

Mendo knows why he was able to break away from the pressures of old.

"Branko Buljevic gave me the start," said Mendo. "We used to play on the same side of the field and got a pretty good understanding of each other. We could really get going during a match."

"Because of that, I felt part of the team."

Buljevic left JUST in 1977 to join Fitzroy Utd. The transfer fee was $12,000.

The second thing that helped Mendo was the emergence of Zoran Ilioski and Joe Picioane in the Footscray team.

"When I first came into the team," he said, "the next youngest player was Jimmy Milisavljevic. He was 24 but I was only 16, meaning there was a big gap. For a few years I was stranded as the kid of the team."

"But over the past few years, Ilioski and Picio have become established in the team. When they first came in, it meant I was no longer the youngest and least experienced."

There was never any doubt that Ristovski would become an established player. Critics will say he has stagnated over the past few seasons but the super-confident, cheeky Mendo has no doubts about his ability.

The compact winger was born in Bitolje, Yugoslavia, on February 2, 1956.

He played no competitive soccer in his homeland but served his apprenticeship in village streets.

When eight years old, Ristovski and his family came to Australia. Even then, he didn't go straight into soccer. Joining JUST was an accident.

"For some reason my father didn't want me to play soccer," said Mendo. "On weekends I always got up early and went walking. One Sunday morning I saw a friend from school walking with a sports bag. I asked where he was going and he said to Footscray Park to play with JUST."

"I tagged along and at the ground I met Zika Nikolic, who was looking after Footscray's juniors."

Nikolic, who has started the careers of many fine JUST layers, invited young Mendo to play.

"I didn't have any boots," said Mendo. "So I played in my sandals. I scored two goals and joined the club the next week."

Ristovski, who has been with JUST nearly 14 years, progressed through the club's junior teams.

Along the way, he came under the eye of several fine coaches.

"In under 12, I was coached by Cedo Cirkovic, current JUST first team coach," said Mendo. "The following year, Rale Rasic coached me. Both Rale and Cira were involved in the seniors, but found time to coach junior teams as well."

"Milos Adamovic was my coach between under 13 and under 15. All three helped me tremendously."

Mendo first played in the reserves at Footscray while still at under 15 level.

Then came the jump from under 16 to senior soccer.

After bursting into soccer with such a great impact, Ristovski's career has been followed closely. So far he has made two appearances in Socceroo colors, but clearly he is a player of the future.

"I played against Hong Kong in Canberra in 1976," said Mendo, "but the Australian team wasn't a good one. It was selected hurriedly and was aimed at giving experience to players."

Australia lost 1-0.

Last season Ristovski was given a better idea of international soccer when selected in the Australian XI to face Greece at Olympic Park, Melbourne.

In front of 25,000 fans, Australia lost 2-1.

"I didn't play as well as I would have liked," said Ristovski, "but it was good to be involved in the match. I settled down OK, but I would like to have done more playing in front of my home crowd."

And what about future Australian selection for Mendo Ristovski?

"Many players are going all-out to get a place in the Australian team for the 1982 World Cup bid," said Mendo. "I would love to be selected but it's not everything. I'll continue playing my own way and hopefully the coach will pick me. If I'm good enough I'll be in."

After a six-year, career in top soccer Mendo has discovered all the drawbacks.

"The biggest drag is getting injured," he said. "You can be playing well, then cop an injury. You go out of the team and in most cases lose fitness. From then on it's a fight to get back to your best."

"I get a lot of trouble from a knee injury. Last season I missed six weeks, and in 1977 I was out for six weeks. My ligaments are bad, and if I get a heavy knock the injury will flare up. It's very frustrating."

As a winger, it's Ristovski's job to take on and beat his full back. He's successful at this, but there's one man Mendo finds harder to beat than most.

"Jim Tansey is my most difficult opponent," said Mendo. "He plays very hard, and even if you get past him he will bring you down. You lose confidence if your legs are taken from under you a couple of times."

Mendo emphasised that the art of dribbling past an opponent depends a lot on good fortune.

"Sometimes you can glide past the full back all day," he said, "but on occasions it just doesn't work out. The ball can take a bad bounce, or a leg will cause a lucky deflection."

Ristovski, an accountancy student, sees his role in the JUST team being as fairly straightforward.

"Wingers are there to take the ball down the line," he said, "then get in a cross. Now that we have Peter Oller-ton, the crosses can be high or low. We haven't had a forward with his height or heading ability since Buljevic left."

JUST is shaping up for a good year and Ristovski is confident of success.

"We haven't had a lot of luck in the past two seasons," he said, "but I think it's about to change. The atmosphere is great and there's competition for a place in the team. Everybody is trying their hardest to win a place."

"If we can avoid injuries, JUST will be up with the leaders."

Give kids a better go says Kalinchev

Preston Makedonia has long been known as the 'big spender' of Victorian soccer.

Each season the club spends thousands of dollars buying players, but that would change if Preston's junior co-ordinator John Kalinchev had his way.

Kalinchev believes Preston's committee should cut back on its buying of players, and give some of the clubs juniors a chance.

"Preston has many good junior players," said John, "but there is little hope that they will make the senior team. The committee is too scared to give the young boys a go. The committee doesn't want the team to lose a game, and thinks buying established players is better than promoting good, young reserve players."

Kalinchev, an assistant coach for Preston's senior team, as well as coach of the club's under 14 and under 16 State League clubs teams, said he would be working hard to change the club's attitude towards juniors.

"The committee doesn't think our young boys are good enough," said John, "but how will they improve if they aren't given encouragement and the experience of playing in the State League."

At present, two young players are battling in the first team squad, Dusko Maslovski and Alex Najdoski both have first team experience, but it's unlikely they will be able to claim a regular place.

Kalinchev's first step to help his juniors will be to ensure they have first-class coaching at a young age.

"Coaching juniors properly is very important," he said. "They must be taught properly when they are young. Too many junior coaches in Victoria don't know enough about soccer. All junior coaches should be qualified in some way before they teach the boys."

He also intends to get Preston's junior set up better organised.

"If we can get better 'organisation in the areas of training, recruiting and promoting juniors to the senior teams, the standard of our junior players will improve. Then, the club might give the boys more chance."

Kalinchev is planning Preston's first junior soccer clinic, which he hopes will become a regular feature of the club's youth program.

"In the May school holidays," said Kalinchev, "we will be inviting youngsters between 13 and 16 to attend our soccer clinic. At this stage, the clinic will be for five days in the first week of the holidays."

Kalinchev said players from secondary schools in the Preston, Thomastown and Lalor areas would be invited.

"We are looking for a sponsor to provide each boy with a tee-shirt," said John. "But the clinic will not cost the boys any money. They will get to keep the tee-shirt."

Leading Preston players including Lu Kastner, Robert Cullen, Jeff Faulkner and David Garthwaite could be helping out at the clinic.

"We will divide the boys into two groups," said John. "While one is working on the theory of the game, the other will work on practical, with coaching on all aspects — shooting, dribbling, heading, tackling and so on."

Kalinchev, a P.E. instructor at Preston Technical school, said the clinic should be a success.

But he fired a broadside at junior clinics run as private enterprises.

"The clinics should be run by the V.S.F.," said John. "Even if the clubs provide the financial backing, the V.S.F. should be in control. I think it's a very bad that up to $100 is charged for a junior to be coached at private junior clinics."

But back to Preston. Kalinchev is proud of his club's record in the State League colts.

Preston has won several championships in the colts in the past few years.

"Our colts are very successful," said John, "and we have some of the best juniors in the State. These boys must be given a chance."

At present, four ex-juniors are shaping up well in Preston's reserve team. They are Bill Dimoski, Peter Ristovski, Tom Pavlovski and Chris Demeris.

Kalinchev will continue pushing for a better deal for his juniors.

VICTORIAN ROUND-UP

BLASBY GOES TO APPEALS BOARD

Fitzroy Utd. goalkeeper Peter Blasby will go before the appeals Board of the Victorian Soccer Federation in a bid to get his transfer fee reduced.

Blasby wants to join Frankston but the Bayville club will not meet Fitzroy's demand of $4,500.

Frankston is anxious to sign a second goalkeeper to compete with regular Frank Petersen.

Blasby became unhappy at Fitzroy after being dropped and replaced by Scottish import Jim Manner, who retained the number one shirt at Blasby's expense.

Fitzroy signed former Albion Rovers goalkeeper Jeff Oliver to back up Manner, but recently coach John Margeritis expressed an interest Yolka Benovic of Essendon Croatia.

Goalkeeping problems aren't new to Frankston. Last season the club was interested in signing Essendon Croatia's John Kennedy, but once again the transfer fee was prohibitive.

After a lengthy dispute, Kennedy, the former South Melbourne and Fitzroy Utd. star, transferred to Melbourne.

Williamson for sale

Defender Ian Williamson has been placed on the transfer list by Frankston City.

Williamson, the former Mooroolbark full back, joined Frankston last season.

The tough-tackling backman made 13 appearances for Frankston last season, plus two as a substitute. He scored two goals.

But it was expected Frankston top-heavy with defenders, would put Williamson up for transfer.

Frankston is now minus three defenders from last season — Eric Gillespie (returned to Britain), Sandy Irvine (transferred to Morwell Falcons) and Williamson.

Tommy Fox, who transferred to Dandenong City, and Con Fekes, who looks likely to go to Doveton, are the two other players transferred-list by Frankston.

Mike Brazil, then with Ajax, scores against Box Hill goalkeeper Mick Pearce.

Hall and Brazil join Melbourne

Melbourne has been busy in the transfer market over the past weeks, and has signed three players.

Full back Ken Hall has transferred to Melbourne for $1000 from First Division rival Box Hill. Hall came to Australia from England in 1977 and spent 13 seasons with Box Hill. Last season he was runner-up to Paul Corke in the club's best and fairest award.

Moreland midfielder Micky Brazil has joined Melbourne. Brazil has played with Slavia, Hakoah, Green Gully and Altona. He showed an interest in switching to Melbourne and the Hungarian-backed club was happy to sign Brazil.

The third new player is Michael Bond, a striker from North Shore United in Auckland, New Zealand. He's 21.

Melbourne supporters are watching with interest the duel between goalkeepers John Kennedy and Ernie Toth. Both have shown excellent form in early games, and coach Ken Kontra will have a difficult time deciding which player to use.

McElhinney disagrees with the tactics used by McMinimee and has decided he would rather leave the club than play under McMinimee.

Doveton is reluctant to release the ex-Slavia midfielder, but believes it's the only solution to the problem.

Several clubs, including Kellor Austria, Morwell Falcons, Dandenong City and Prahran City have made enquiries about McElhinney.

BATTLE FOR $1000 NUBRIK CUP STARTS SUNDAY, MARCH 11

The $1,000 Nubrik Cup will kick at Box Hill's Wembley Park this Sunday.

The tournament, organised by Springvale soccer club, includes Box Hill, Doveton, Springvale and Dandenong City.

The competition was switched to Wembley Park after Springvale's two grounds — Ross Reserve and Moodmores St. — were made unavailable because of Council improvement work.

The cup competition, organised for the first time last season, will continue thanks to the generous sponsorship of Nubrik Pty. Ltd. which makes available $1,000 for prizemoney.

The competition will last three weekends with a round-robin.

The draw is: March 11 — Springvale v Dandenong 1 pm, Box Hill v Doveton 3 pm.

March 18 — Dandenong v Box Hill 1 pm, Doveton v Springvale 3 pm.

March 25 — Dandenong v Doveton 1 pm, Box Hill v Springvale 3 pm.

The team on top of the table after the final round will receive $500. Second place has $200 and third and fourth earn $125.

Doveton won the competition last season. For the 1979 tournament, Box Hill has replaced Waverley City, which was relegated to the Second Division.

Springvale City is after junior coaches and a junior coaching co-ordinator. The club would prefer if coaches had attended a basic skills course and the co-ordinator had passed a preliminary coaching badge course.

Springvale's junior teams have a floodlit pitch and excellent training facilities.

Springvale requires an assistant coach for the club's third team. Any applicants should have a preliminary coaching badge.

Players are also wanted for the third team. For information contact John Speelmeyer on 547 4724 (Home) or 615 5795 (Bus).

MARCONI je nadmudrio JUST-a iako se branio skoro 80 minuta. Same prvih 10 minuta Marconi je napredovao ali bez uspeha, jer je odbrana "plavih" bila na visini zadatka. Kada je JUST krenuo u napad, onda je nastale nevolje. Bez ikakvog razloga, cela uzor odbrana je pocinje da igra ofenzivno, sto je Marconi koristio za uspešne protivnapade. Osim prvog gola koji je Marconi postigao iz gurave, posle kikseva Jovicica i Konarioca, ostali su pali iz protivnapada. Golman JUST-a Potter nije krio ni za jedan gol, iako se kod drugog gola bacilo pre vremena. Da odbrana nije bila briga navole, rezultat je mogao biti 0:0, ako zabornivo ubodjicajni pih, koji cesto prati napadace JUST-a. U prvom poluvremenu stavio su predostli Ofertoni i Pockione, a u drugom Mirko Hujovic je sa 11 metra sutinno pored gola. U svakom slučaju ova pobena utakmica je od nasocivne koristi za JUST. Skinula je igrace iz oblake na zemlju, gde se moći lakse da izvuče naravnost, imaju dovoljno vremena, jer se prvo kolo izgleda zbog Ampel Kupa u Slonje, neće odigrati 10. marta.

AMPOL KUP U MELBOURNU

Dve utakmice kole se igraju u petak 9. marta, produžice nade Makedonije i Essendon/Croydon za dva dana, jer se tak u nedelju 11. marta znati tačno ko se pobedi i nadigrati protivnika. Ampel Kupa u Melbourne. Ova utakmica mora da se odigra na sreću, koja mora biti ogromna. Jer Sunshine City i George Cross imaju daleko protivnika. Croydon treba da pobedi Frankston City za dva gola gola razlike i da se nada u manje ubedljivo pobedu George Cross nad Albionem. U ovoj grupi ni Slavia nije odigrana, jer ima utakmicu manje odigrana.

Makedonija je postigla znanacuju pobedu nad Croydon City-om, ali njen sukub je mnogo teži, jer dva najveća supermaka za drugo mesto igraju odbojnu utakmicu međusobno. Bilo ko da pobedi na vešja za Makedoniju. Medjutim, Sunshine City je ipak opasniji suparnik, jer u zadnjem kolu ima taku utakmicu od Croydon City-a. Znači, u sredu svedo, navikla Makedonija treba da nadigraju za Croydon City, a onda u petak uvece za Makedoniju protiv Juventusa i u subotu po podne za Makedonija protiv Croydon. Zamisljeno, zar ne? Ali takav je nepogodni, kao kolo, mozes napraviti hiljadu kombinacija. I onda se nada da se ne desi.

McLeod stays

Box Hill officials are delighted that midfielder Ian McLeod has shelved plans to retire and re-signed with the club.

Earlier this season, McLeod looked certain to hang up his boots after three years with the Hillmen, but had a change of heart.

The former Altona City star has a great left foot and his experience will be invaluable to the young Box Hill team.

McLeod captained Box Hill in its 1977 Cumberland Cup final victory.

Box Hill is still negotiating with its goalkeeper Graham Morgan, and so retains keeper Gino Jaccovelli has been between the posts in the first team.

Box Hill striker Ian Tuffield is holidaying in America, but in his absence the chase for the lanky forward has heated up. Preston Makedonia leads the field but recently George Cross and Juventus have shown interest.

The situation will probably remain deadlocked until Tuffield returns from overseas.

Serge Berardini has been training with Juventus, and Frontree Gully is interested in Aukle Wauldy.

The John McPhee Memorial Trophy will be contested this weekend at Box Hill. The competition, played in memory of the late Box Hill supporter, is for under 14 teams.

Twenty five teams have entered the competition on March 10 and 11.

$200 WAGE DENIED

Morwell Falcons coach Sandy Irvine rang 'Soccer Action' to clarify a report in last week's edition.

Irvine, who recently transferred from Frankston City, was reported to be earning $200 a week. However, Sandy said he doesn't earn that much.

We apologise to Irvine and Morwell Falcons for any inconvenience caused.

McElhinney to quit Doveton

Outstanding Doveton midfielder Pat McElhinney is on the transfer list at his own request after a bust up with coach Danny McMinimee.

McElhinney disagrees with the tactics used by McMinimee and has decided he would rather leave the club than play under McMinimee.

Doveton is reluctant to release the ex-Slavia midfielder, but believes it's the only solution to the problem.

Several clubs, including Kellor Austria, Morwell Falcons, Dandenong City and Prahran City have made enquiries about McElhinney.

Also on the transfer list is young full back Jimmy Wilson.

Wilson, who was in the Victorian under 18 team last season, has been training with Slavia. His desire to play in the State League is the reason for leaving Doveton.

Jimmy's brother George Wilson has transferred from Doveton to Frankston Pines.

Striker John Henderson, who was in and out of Doveton's first team last season, has transferred to Prahran City.

Doveton has signed Con Fekes from Frankston City.

ΟΙ ΝΒΟΙ ΚΑΝΟΝΙΣΜΟΙ

Είναι πλέον θέμα ημερών η έναρξη του 7ου "Εθνικού πρωταθλήματος, συγκεκριμένα αρχίζει την Κυριακή, και ήδη παρατηρούμε άνωμαλίες στην διεξαγωγή των αγώνων, αλλάζοντας στην διοργάνωση διεθνών αγώνων και επιβολή νέων κανονισμών.

"Εκτός από τις διαφορές των ομαδικών στο έδαφος όπου ο τελικός του "Αμκολ Κάπ θα αναβληθεί αγώνες του "Εθνικού πρωταθλήματος, και αν εξαιρούσαμε το "Βέτο" της "Ομοσπονδίας στις διοργανώσεις των διεθνών αγώνων, έχουμε και έναν νέο κανονισμό ο οποίος δεν προκαλεί αγανάκτηση αλλά δικαιολογημένη απορία, ως ένας "Ομοσπονδιακός προπονητής μπορεί και αλλάζει κανόνες του πρωταθλήματος και μάλιστα με τις ελλογίες της "Ομοσπονδίας.

"Ο κ. Ικοντεντόρ πρότεινε, μεταξύ άλλων, την τροποποίηση της βαθμολογίας απορρίπτοντας έτσι το βέλγιο έκλεινος.

"Ο νέος κανονισμός προβλέπει τρεις βαθμούς, αντί δύο βαθμών, για την ομάδα που θα κερδίσει με διαφορά 4 τερμάτων (4-0, 5-1, 6-2, ... 20-16), ενώ στα ... λογικά σκόρ η νίκη θα βαθμολογείται κανονικά με δύο βαθμούς.

"Ισχύει (πάντοτε κατά τον κ. Ικοντεντόρ) ότι η διαφορά των τερμάτων τερμάτων και ο ένας έστω πόντος θα παροτρύνει τους προπονητές να απαιτούν περισσότερα από τους παίκτες - ένας βαθμός μπορεί να τους εξασφαλίσει ακόμα και το συμβόλαιο για την επόμενη χρονιά - και εννοούμε τα γκολ, τους φιλάθλους να φωνάζουν ... "Εκδοχή δέχουμε" και τους παίκτες να τρέχουν σαν ελάφια να σκοράρουν, γανακτιομένοι, διότι θα έβρουν ότι είτε κερδίσουν με ένα γκολ διαφορά είτε με ... 35 (!) το ίδιο περίεργο κέρδι.

"Όλοι μισώτε λοιπόν; "Εκδοχή διαφέρει ο κ. Ικοντεντόρ; Δεν είναι για γκολ οι φιλάθλοι; Γκολ θα τους δώσουμε έστω κι αν χρειαστεί να γίνει το ποδόσφαιρο παρωδή, έστω κι αν χρειαστεί να επιβάλλουμε τον κανονισμό του ... μασιγματο - ο παίκτης που θα έχει σημειώσει τα λιγότερα γκολ, στο τέλος της περιόδου, θα μιστεί γάντια τόσες φορές όσες τα γκολ του πρώτου σκόρερ.

"Όλες αυτές οι έκδοσεις, όσο ηλίθιες κι αν είναι, έχουν σκοπό την αδήριτη του έρωτός των φιλάθλων στα γήπεδα.

Και όλες αυτές οι "φαινικές" ιδέες του προπονητή της "Εθνικής ομάδας έχουν τις ελλογίες της "Ομοσπονδίας.

"Ακόμη και τα δόγματα των συλλόγων αλλάζουμε για να δοούμε περισσότερους φιλάθλους.

"Ίσως μετ'αυτή να έχουμε νέον προπονητή με πιά ... επαναστατικές ιδέες, να βγαίνουν κάποιες οι παίκτες στο γήπεδο με φουστάνες ή με δωροθήκες φούστες κάτι που θα ταίριαζε καλύτερα στην περίπτωση.

"Όλα αυτά για να φέρουμε φιλάθλους στα γήπεδα; Θα αλλάζουμε δηλαδή θεομολογία παραδόσεις του ποδοσφαίρου; Και η κοιλότητα του παίκτη νικηστή;

"Όλες αυτές οι ιδέες θα έχουν, κατά την γνώμη μου άριστα το αντίθετο αποτέλεσμα, θα καταστρέψουν το ποδόσφαιρο, θα μειώσουν τον έρωτό φιλάθλων και θα χρεωκοπήσουν τους συλλόγους.

"Το σάστημα της διαφοράς τεσσάρων τερμάτων έχει χρεωκοπήσει στην Ελλάδα όταν το έδαφος και αυτό το έδαφος ο κ. Ικοντεντόρ.

Το ποδόσφαιρο δεν βελτιώνεται με το να αλλάζουμε τους κανόνες του.

Αν χρειάζεσθε νέους κανονισμούς, χρειάζεσθε το σεαριστικό ταλαντοχάρη και ικανούς προπονητές να εναρμόνισουν την κοιλότητα του ποδοσφαίρου. Προπονητές που θα τολμήσουν να ριφούν ουσίονον ένα βαθμό για να δώσουν την ελευθερία να αναδειχτεί ένας ταλαντοχάρη ποδοσφαιριστής.

Χρειάζεσθε λόνοντες με ποδοσφαιρική έγκαι γελιατική συνείδηση που δεν θα γίνονται εμπόδια στο έργο του προπονητή.

Τέλος χρειάζεσθε φιλάθλους που έρχονται στο γήπεδο γνωρίζοντας ότι η ομάδα τους μπορεί και να χάσει, φιλάθλους που έρουν να δημιουργήσουν έμψυχα ακόμα κι όταν χάνει η ομάδα τους, φιλάθλους που δεν βρίσκουν προπονητές έκκευη κόνε σαν μια "βεντάνα" στον κάκον.

Απορούμε να τα πετύχουμε αυτά; Τότε λόνουμε το μεγαλύτερο μέρος του προβλήματος και δεν χρειάζεται να γίνει το ποδόσφαιρο παρωδή.

Spotlight on Victorian State League coaches

Many 'stars' money-hungry and disloyal: Sanchez

By KYLE PATTERSON

Experience is the quality many coaches believe is essential in players, but George Cross coach Johnny Sanchez maintains there is no substitute for youth.

And Sanchez says Victorian soccer would be a lot healthier if the clubs gave youngsters a chance.

"Success is what every club wants," said Sanchez, "and most think that buying players will solve everything. Supporters are the bread and butter for clubs and they want to follow a winning team."

"But a lot of these so-called experienced players who clubs buy are money hungry and disloyal. They're not really interested in playing, only in making as much as they can."

"It's getting out of hand. The players' demands are getting higher and the clubs are suffering. I see a lot of clubs going bankrupt."

Sanchez said some transfer fees were ridiculous.

"Most of the players transferred for $5,000," he said, "aren't worth $1,000."

When he took over at George Cross midway through last season it was immediately evident he would pursue a youth policy. His first move was to axe older, established players Paul Murphy, Kevin Walker and Alec McConville and replace them with youngsters.

They are Phil Cutajar, Robert Mirak and Jim Paparas. Cutajar had limited first team experience before Sanchez arrived but now all are firmly established and among the most promising players in the league.

Paparas and Mirak are brilliant players and were easily the 'finds' of the 1978 State League season. But many coaches in the State League prefer to have the security of older players, preferring not to gamble with youth.

"Robert Mirak and Jim Paparas weren't instant successes," said Sanchez. "We had to persevere with them, and fortunately they came good."

"It took a while before they were accepted by the rest of the team. There was a bit of a clique in the team when I came and the lads copied a fair bit of abuse. But all is forgotten now."

Sanchez said the first month any youngster has in a first team is vital.

"It was a test of character for Robert and Jim, and they came through it well. If a youngster doesn't make it at first, it has a very big effect on him."

Johnny also spoke about Laurie Blisac, another George

Cross youngster, who made his debut in the 1978 Ampol Cup but failed to win a regular place.

Laurie came into the team at a very bad time," said John. "The club was unsettled and he was up against it. He went into a shell after his early games, and only now is starting to show his true potential."

Blisac and Steve Sodonaco are shaping up well, and could be the next youngsters to be given a chance in the George Cross team.

"Steve went along to a national league club in Melbourne," said Sanchez, "and asked for a trial. The club sent him away without even taking a look at him."

"He wants to improve and George Cross isn't going to turn youngsters away without giving them a go."

Sanchez hit out at the people who run junior coaching clinics.

"Those clinics do very little for the players," he said. "They help the people who run them, who are obviously after the money and their picture in the papers."

George Cross has lost several players. Forwards Robert Cullen and Ken Reed will be hard to replace.

"I think Robert Cullen is too young to know what's really going on," said Sanchez. "He had troubles with the club but none of it would have happened if he knew a few things."

"Sanchez said Reed was one of

the best centre forwards in Australia and could play for the national team.

"George Ross didn't want to hold him back," said Sanchez. "If a national club wanted him we wouldn't stand in his way. He'll do well with APFA. He's a good trainer and is prepared to listen to advice."

George Cross is likely to lose also John Webb, so Sanchez now has the task of re-building the Cross.

Big future for Esposito, McNally

The departure of former Soccerro striker Ray Pocock from Sunshine City will drastically change the team's style. Coach Bill Walsh has already begun working on the new formation and believes the new-look side has a great chance of carrying off the 1979 Ampol Cup.

Bill Walsh

To replace Banagan and Pocock, Sunshine has drafted two promising youngsters.

Andy Esposito and John McNally, both 17, look certain to claim regular places in Sunshine's first team.

"It's my policy to introduce young players to the first team," said Bill. "Too many good junior players are stifled by being kept in reserve sides for too long."

Andy and John are two good lads, and deserve their places in the team."

As well as in being Walsh's policy to introduce youngsters, Sunshine is forced to follow a line because of a lack of finance to buy players.

But Walsh is positive Sunshine can continue to compete with bigger clubs because of its youth policy.

"We are fortunate enough to have Ian Petherick as second team coach," said Walsh. "Ian is excellent with young players and he has a solid reserve team. Two seasons ago we cleared out all our reserve players to make way for the club's under 16 team."

Sunshine is carefully planning its youth policy, and the club will produce many fine young players.

One youngster to emerge from Sunshine's second team is centre back Steve Ellis. The tall stopper now has a solid partnership in defence with former Oxford Utd. (England) captain Nick Lowe, who joined the club from Mooroolbark Utd.

"Ellis is languishing in the reserve team when I joined the club," said Bill. "Straight away he was promoted to the firsts, and his performances last season showed he has the ability to be a leading player in the league."

Walsh is disappointed the Sunshine-Araluen Rovers merger didn't eventuate.

"There are too many State League clubs in the western suburbs," he said. "I'm sorry the proposed amalgamation fell through, because it would have given us a great boost."

"The greatest tragedy is our lack of support. Players love playing in front of the crowds, especially when the crowd gets behind them."

But Sunshine hasn't a large following. Our supporters are feeble, but in most instances, the team is playing against the crowd."

However, we aren't the only ones without support. You could band together half the State League clubs and still struggle to muster 1000 supporters."

For the immediate future, Walsh thinks Sunshine can win its first State League honor by taking off the Ampol number 16 team.
